

Wheel of Work

The eight sections of the Wheel of Work represent suggested areas that influence job satisfaction.

The center of the wheel is assigned a 0 which indicates that you are not at all satisfied.

The outer edge of the wheel is a 10 which indicates that you are extremely satisfied.

Rank your level of satisfaction with each work area by drawing a line somewhere between 0 and 10 in each wedge to represent how satisfied you are in that work area.

For example, if you are a 5 in your salary, you would draw a curved line halfway between the center and outer edge of the wheel in the Salary wedge.

Do your lines create a balanced wheel or are there areas that create imbalance?
